Q2: In line, pressures are likely to continue on pricing revision

NMCC's Q2 2017 results were in-line with our estimates. Pricing revisions with Health ministry, provisions against rising receivables, and restructuring of the Medicines segment pushed Q2 earnings lower by 67% y-o-y to SAR19.5mn, in line with our estimate of SAR19.7mn and below consensus estimates of SAR25mn. Care reported a ~17% y-o-y fall in revenues in Q2 2017, partially due to pricing revisions with Health ministry since beginning of this year, however, revenue improvement of 7% in quarterly basis despite of Ramadan and Eid alfitr seasons was impressive given the company's current conditions. Going forward, while the company's top line will be supported by recent completion of the expansion project (adding 100 beds), profitability will remain a concern on pricing pressure and receivables. Rising receivables remains a risk for the company, and any payment from the government will provide an immediate upside trigger for the stock. The stock currently trades at ~23x its 2017E earnings. For now, we continue with our Neutral rating on the stock with a target price of SAR45 per share.

Key takeaway from Q2 earnings:

- Margins declined sharply due to the Health ministry's pricing revision as well as the restructuring of the pharmaceutical distribution unit. Net profit margins came in at high single digits in the first two quarters of the year.
- Despite the lower pricing, revenues surprised on the upside, rising on a sequential basis, which we believe was mainly due to the first phase of the hospital expansion.

Outlook

- Top line growth will remain under pressure in 2017 on lower pricings from Ministry of Health. However, it will be partially offset by improving utilization of the recently opened expansion, which added 100 beds.
- We expect revenue growth to return to double digits in 2018, as another 224 beds are expected to be added next year, and the impact of the lower pricing would completely set by the end of 2017.
- Margins are expected to slightly recover from the current levels on the back restructuring of the medicines segment and improving utilization of the recently commissioned expansion. However, the company will not be able to generate net profit margins of 20%, enjoyed earlier, till the pricing does not recover

Valuation

As mentioned above, while revenue is expected to pick up from next year due to the completion of the expansion projects, profitability will remain under pressure on pricing concerns. In addition, rising receivables continue to be a concern for the company as we haven't seen any write back of provisions. Our target price on the company comes to SAR45 per share.

Risks: Upside risks to our estimates is from payment of outstanding receivables, which will not only improve the company's cash balance but also may lead to write back of provisions. Further, any increase in pricing from the government will directly improve the bottom line. Downside risks include delay in completion of its ongoing expansion plans, and further increase in outstanding receivables, forcing further provisioning.

Explanation of Al Rajhi Capital's rating system

Al Rajhi Capital uses a three-tier rating system based on absolute upside or downside potential for all stocks under its coverage except financial stocks and those few other companies not compliant with Islamic Shariah law:

"Overweight": Our target price is more than 10% above the current share price, and we expect the share price to reach the target on a 12 month time horizon.

"Neutral": We expect the share price to settle at a level between 10% below the current share price and 10% above the current share price on a 12 month time horizon.

"Underweight": Our target price is more than 10% below the current share price, and we expect the share price to reach the target on a 12 month time horizon.

"Target price": We estimate target value per share for every stock we cover. This is normally based on widely accepted methods appropriate to the stock or sector under consideration, e.g. DCF (discounted cash flow) or SoTP (sum of the parts) analysis.

Please note that the achievement of any price target may be impeded by general market and economic trends and other external factors, or if a company's profits or operating performance exceed or fall short of our expectations.
