Saudi Electricity (SEC) announced its 3Q10 preliminary results on 18 October 2010. Net income came in at SR2.3bn, in-line with our estimate of SR2.4bn. This implies a 34% increase YoY.

- Net income: Net income for 3Q10 came in at SR2.3bn, in-line with our estimate of SR2.4bn. This increased net income in 9M10 to SR2.6bn, a 55% growth compared to the same period last year.
- Operating income: Operating income for 3Q10 came in at SR2.2bn, 8% below our estimate of SR2.4mn.
- Earning per share (EPS): 3Q10 EPS came in at SR0.55 versus our estimate of SR0.58. 3Q10 was an increase of 34% YoY (SR0.42 in 3Q09). This increased the company's EPS in 9M10 to SR0.62 compared to SR0.40 in 9M09.
- New tariff structure drives profits: The increase in electricity tariffs (which became effective on July 01, 2010) was the key reason behind the rise in earnings this quarter. The tariff re-structure (on industrial, commercial and government consumers) positively impacted 3Q10 revenues which led to the significant, and disproportionate, impact on net income (a key reason behind our valuation). Another, yet less important factor, was the increase in energy consumption which we estimate to be growing at 6% per annum.
- Valuation: We upgraded the stock to Overweight on June 01, 2010 and the stock has gained 39.7% since then (outperforming the TASI by 37%). Our current price target is SR18.5/share, but we await the full results before updating our view on the stock.
