Shaker's Q2 was impacted by weak demand, with revenue declining 17% y-o-y on the back of lower volume. However, gross margin at 25.5% was higher than our estimate of 24.6%, suggesting that Shaker likely did not resort to discounts in order to push volumes. Despite cost management efforts which yielded SAR8.9mn savings in G&A expenses, operating margin declined 240 bps y-o-y due to higher investments in sales and distribution. Lower sales volume also impacted the performance of its associate LG Shaker, share of profit from which stood at SAR13.7mn vs. our estimate of SAR32mn. While we have factored in the impact of lower consumer spending on discretionary retailers, we believed the AC segment will likely remain defensive, due to strong replacement demand from change in regulations (moving to higher rated products) and climatic conditions. We now build for lower volume growth going forward, to reflect the weak demand environment, likely due to deferred purchase decisions of consumers and weaker than estimated construction activity. Based on our revised estimates, the target price stands at SAR24.2 per share (5.2% upside) and we downgrade our rating to Neutral.

- Gross and operating profit: Gross margin at 25.5% was higher than our estimate of 24.6%. However, Shaker continues to invest aggressively in sales and distribution capabilities in order to maintain/ gain market share.

- Net profit: Net profit at SAR47.7mn was lower than our estimate of SAR91mn (consensus estimate SAR73mn), mainly due to lower than expected operating profits and lower share of profits from its associate, LG Shaker. Increase in other income as a result of reversal in provisions amounting to SAR2.8mn favourably impacted net income.

- Valuation: Due to the weak demand environment currently, we downgrade the rating to Neutral, with revised target price of SAR24.2 per share. The stock trades at 14.6x/ 11.7x its FY16e/ FY17e EPS respectively. We believe the downside risk is limited, but the stock can witness significant earnings upgrade with any uptick in demand, as the resultant volume offtake will be strong on the back of Shaker's solid franchise of LG brand. Despite the weak Q2 results (which historically has been a seasonally strong quarter), majorly a function of market demand, we continue to believe that over the medium to long term, Shaker should realise higher than industry revenue growth in AC segment and consolidate and grow its market share.

Explanation of Al Rajhi Capital's rating system

Al Rajhi Capital uses a three-tier rating system based on absolute upside or downside potential for all stocks under its coverage except financial stocks and those few other companies not compliant with Islamic Shariah law:

"Overweight": Our target price is more than 10% above the current share price, and we expect the share price to reach the target on a 12 month time horizon.

"Neutral": We expect the share price to settle at a level between 10% below the current share price and 10% above the current share price on a 12 month time horizon.

"Underweight": Our target price is more than 10% below the current share price, and we expect the share price to reach the target on a 12 month time horizon.

"Target price": We estimate target value per share for every stock we cover. This is normally based on widely accepted methods appropriate to the stock or sector under consideration, e.g. DCF (discounted cash flow) or SoTP (sum of the parts) analysis.

Please note that the achievement of any price target may be impeded by general market and economic trends and other external factors, or if a company's profits or operating performance exceed or fall short of our expectations.
