SAFCO

Q4: Healthy performance, but valuation still expensive

SAFCO reported a robust set of Q4 numbers with revenue coming in at SAR765mn, 5% above our estimate of SAR726mn as we were factoring in lower volumes. The company's 2015 annual report stated that the company expected shutdowns of SAFCO II & V plants in 2016 for maintenance, which seems like have not happened. Helped by this beat, operating leverage and improved production efficiencies, the company saw its gross profit rise to SAR311mn compared to our estimate of SAR257mn. The company's gross margin was at the highest level in the last four quarters, increasing by about 11% q-o-q. The gain was partially offset by lower than expected associate income from Ibn-Al-Baytar with the Q4 net profit coming in at SAR285mn (vs. our estimate of SAR263mn). SAFCO is currently trading at a forward P/E of 25.6x (~16x historical average) based on our 2017e EPS. Since our last report on December 19, wherein we had maintained our Underweight rating, the stock price declined ~8%. We have a TP of SAR60/share and maintain our Underweight rating on the stock.

Q4 Revenue beat by 5.4%: Q4 revenue came in at SAR765mn, ~5.4% above our estimate of SAR726mn (consensus SAR790mn) on higher sales volume. We had factored in maintenance shutdowns at SAFCO II (47 days) & V (25 days) and Ibn Baytar (25 days for ammonia and 23 days for urea) plants as mentioned in its 2015 annual report. However, it seems that the shut downs at its SAFCO plants did not take place. On a q-o-q basis, revenue jumped ~11% in Q4, due to higher average urea prices. For 2016, revenue dropped ~19.5% y-o-y as lower average product prices more than offset the 13% y-o-y jump in sales volume.

Higher top-line and improved cost efficiencies pushed up margin: After touching its lowest gross profit in at least a decade during Q3, the company reported a gross profit of SAR311mn in Q4, beating our estimate of SAR257mn. This was mainly attributable to higher operating leverage from the top line beat and implementation of various cost improvement measures. On a sequential basis, Q4 gross profit increased by SAR109mn helping gross margin expand more than 1,100bps to 40.6% in Q4 from 29.4% in Q3.

Higher Q4 net profit but lower than expected associate income: Q4 bottom-line came in at SAR285mn, 8.4% higher than our estimate (SAR263mn vs. street estimates ranging widely from SAR248mn to SAR315mn). Higher revenue and lower costs contributed to the beat in net profit, partially offset by lower than expected associate income from Ibn-Al-Baytar on account of planned maintenance shutdown.

Valuation: With likely no shutdown in Q4, we would not be surprised to see a maintenance shutdown in one of the coming two quarters. Since our last report on December 19, wherein we had maintained our Underweight rating, the stock price has declined by about 8%. SAFCO is currently trading at a P/E of 25.6x (unjustified considering its historical multiple of 16x) on our 2017e EPS. We have a TP of SAR6o/share and maintain our Underweight rating.

Risks: Prolonged unplanned shutdowns, decline in urea price due to lower demand esp. in Asia, and change in feedstock pricing mechanism are among the key downside risks. Key upside risk is further improvement in Urea price.

Explanation of Al Rajhi Capital's rating system

Al Rajhi Capital uses a three-tier rating system based on absolute upside or downside potential for all stocks under its coverage except financial stocks and those few other companies not compliant with Islamic Shariah law:

"Overweight": Our target price is more than 10% above the current share price, and we expect the share price to reach the target on a 12 month time horizon.

"Neutral": We expect the share price to settle at a level between 10% below the current share price and 10% above the current share price on a 12 month time horizon.

"Underweight": Our target price is more than 10% below the current share price, and we expect the share price to reach the target on a 12 month time horizon.

"Target price": We estimate target value per share for every stock we cover. This is normally based on widely accepted methods appropriate to the stock or sector under consideration, e.g. DCF (discounted cash flow) or SoTP (sum of the parts) analysis.

Please note that the achievement of any price target may be impeded by general market and economic trends and other external factors, or if a company's profits or operating performance exceed or fall short of our expectations.
