The total returns mentioned in the above table were calculated before deducting all fees and expenses of the fund.

* Target net return:

The net returns mentioned in the above table were calculated after deducting all cash fees and expenses of the fund, but the non-cash expenses such as depreciation allocations of fixed assets were not deducted.

Some fees and cash expenses related to the fund may be changed during the fund term, resulting in change of the target net return.

Also we can see the rental returns achieved through periodic reports and financial statements.

10. Risks of Investment in the Fund

Fund-Related Risks:

- The Fund's Investments Concentrate on Commercial Centers Sector

Upon incorporation of the fund, the fund's investments will be concentrated on retail sector through possession of three real estate assets and one usufruct contract for commercial complexes. Accordingly, the fund's revenue and net income will be associated with the demand for commercial space in the cities in which these assets are located; any decline in demand for commercial spaces in those cities may have negative impact on the performance of the fund and the value of its units more than if the fund's investments in real estate assets were distributed across different sectors.

- No History of Fund Operation

The fund was newly established without a previous operation history that enables potential investors to predict the future performance of the fund. Also, the previous results of similar funds or the previous performance of real estate assets subject of the fund's acquisition are not necessarily indicative of the fund's future performance. Accordingly, the fund's recent inception may have a negative impact on the fund manager's expectations and the unit returns as well.

- Reliance on Fund Manager's Key Personnel

The fund will rely on management and consulting services provided by the fund manager's personnel. It can be difficult to replace some key personnel, especially for the fund manager's senior management. In case that one of such employees leaves work and the fund manager is not able to find a suitable replacement for him/ her, the performance of the fund's business may be adversely affected.

- Liquidity

The investors usually retain their investments and rely on the returns on invested capital. In other cases, some investors seek to liquidate their investments for many factors, including the revenues, value of real estate assets, the general performance of the fund and the market of similar investment instruments. Given that the amount of liquidity for the REIT units may be less than that for the traded companies' shares, the investor in the fund's units may face difficulty for exiting and liquidating its fund units at the price offered by such investor, which may result in the investor exit at a value less than the market value of the fund's assets.

- Trading at Price Lower Than the Market Value

Trading of units may be exposed to factors that lead to fluctuations of value, including those negatively affecting the local and international stock markets, the prevailing and expected economic conditions, interest rates, financing costs, investor trends, general economic conditions and large sales of the fund's units. Accordingly, the purchase of units is appropriate only for investors who can bear the risks associated with these investments, as such risks may result in facing difficulty for the exiting the fund or exiting at a value less than the market value of the fund's assets.

- Fund's Capital Increase

In case the fund manager and the unitholders decide to increase the fund's capital by issuing new units, whether in return for in-kind or cash subscriptions, will lead to a slight reduction in the relative shares of unitholders in the fund, if the Fund's capital is increased through the issuance of new units against contributions in kind, and if the Fund's capital is increased through the issuance of new units against cash contributions, this could result in a reduction in the relative shares of unit owners in the Fund at that time. Unless the unitholders exercise their rights in new units. The increase in capital may negatively affect the value of the units, adversely affecting the investments of unitholders.

- Failure to generate Returns on Investment

There will be no guarantee that the operating business of the fund's assets will generate dividends, or that the fund will succeed in avoiding losses. In general, the fund will not have any source of funds to pay dividends therefrom to unitholders other than the rent and capital returns that may be generated from sale of some or all of its assets. Accordingly, there is no guarantee that the fund will generate returns on the unitholders' investments in the fund and the investors in the fund may lose all or some of their capital invested in the fund.

- Conflict of Interest

There may be cases where the interests of the fund, fund manager or board members conflict with the fund or related parties, which may negatively affect the fund's investments, returns and distributions.

- Appointment of an replacement Fund Manager

A decision was issued by the unitholders and CMA on 25/02/1443 AH corresponding to 30/11/2021 AD to dismiss the former fund manager and appoint Alinma Investment Company as a replacement fund manager. The replacement fund manager may face difficulty in making some decisions due to the lack of all the previous information or the inaccuracy and efficiency of the information and data provided by the former manager, which may affect its ability to make a decision with regard to the management of the fund. The replacement fund manager shall not be responsible for the decisions or actions taken from the date of establishment of the fund until the dismissal date of the former fund manager with the consequent losses and risks

A. Risks Related to the Fund's Assets

• General Risks of Real Estate Investment

The return on real estate investments is subject to many interrelated factors, including negative changes in local, regional or international economic conditions, negative conditions in the local market, financial positions of real estate lessees, buyers and sellers, changes in operating expenses, environmental laws and regulations, governmental laws and financial policies, energy prices, changes in the relative demand for different types and sites of real estate, and the risks resulting from dependence on cash flows, operational problems, as well as force majeure, uninsurable losses, and other factors beyond the control of the fund manager. Any of such factors may cause material risks that negatively affect the value of the fund's assets and the fund's ability to generate any returns on investments.

• Risks of Variations in Real Estate Value and Lack of Liquidity

Real estate is a low liquidity asset, and the degree of liquidity varies according to the demand of this type of investment. If the fund needs to liquidate its real estate investments or part of it at an inappropriate time, the selling price may be less than the book value. Accordingly, any delay or difficulty that the fund may encounter in disposal of its assets may negatively and significantly affect the dividends, if any, that the unitholders receive.

• Risks of Possibility of Challenging Fund's Ownership of Real Estate Assets

The title deeds do not represent the full rights for disposition of property and such deeds may be appealed. So, the real estate assets acquired by the fund may be subject to any legal disputes related to the ownership of such assets, which may impair the fund's ability to dispose or transfer the real estate assets in a manner free of foreclosure and restrictions. In some cases, this may result in the fund's loss of the ownership of the real estate assets that acquisition thereof supposed to be legal. Such disputes and conflicts on ownership may also significantly affect the value of real estate assets and the value of fund units as well.

• Risks of Competitive Nature of Retail and Commercial Center Sectors in the Kingdom

Some of the initial real estate assets, in the retail sector in general and in the commercial center sector in particular, are located in highly competitive areas. In addition, commercial centers may be developed and established near real estate assets, creating direct competition with real estate assets. As such, the returns and market value of real estate assets will depend on the ability of real estate assets to compete for attracting lessees. Accordingly, the success of other competitors in attracting and retaining lessees may affect the returns of the fund's real estate assets, which have a substantial negative impact on the fund's business, financial position, cash flows and operating results.

• Risks of Dependence of the Fund's Future Rental Returns on Ability to Attract and Retain Suitable Lessees and Effective Management of Real Estate Assets

There is no guarantee that the fund will be able to attract and retain suitable lessees according to its terms and conditions. In addition, the financial stability of the fund lessees may affect the fund financial performance. Also, the financial stability of lessees may change over time as a result of reasons directly related to lessees or the economy of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, which may affect their ability to pay rent. Furthermore, the fund may incur costs for retaining existing lessees and attracting new lessees, as well as the costs and time required to enforce the rights stipulated in the lease agreement with the defaulting lessee, including eviction and re-letting costs, which may be high. Failure to attract and retain suitable lessees may have a substantial negative impact on the fund's business, financial position, cash flows and operating results, and may also adversely affect value of the real estate assets.

- Risks of Loss of Principal Lessees of the Real Estate Assets

In case that some or all of principal lessees decide neither to continue nor to renew their lease contracts, this may lead to vacancy of large rental spaces, which may cause delay for finding an alternative lessee to occupy such spaces. Accordingly, the termination or non-renewal of the contracts of any of the principal lessees may adversely affect the financial position, cash flows and operating results, and may also adversely affect value of the real estate assets.

- Risks of Failure to Guarantee Maintenance of the Rental Prices as per the Prevailing Market Prices

Rental prices for real estate assets depend on several factors, including but not limited to, the prevailing conditions of supply and demand and the quality and designs of the real estate assets. There is no guarantee that the fund manager (through the property manager) will be able to attract new lease contracts or renew existing contracts as per the prevailing rental prices. Accordingly, the failure of the fund manager (through the property manager) to do so may have a substantial negative impact on the fund's business, financial position and operating results.

- Risks of Possibility of the Fund being subject to some Fixed Costs that will not decrease if Revenue decreases

The rents and operating income that the fund receive may decrease as a result of the various negative changes that affect either the real estate assets or the fund's lessees. It should be noted that some of the fund's main expenses, including management fees, maintenance and operating costs of real estate assets will not decrease as a result of the revenue decrease. Accordingly, if rents and operating income decreased while costs remain the same, the fund's revenue and funds available for distribution to unitholders may decrease or no.

- Risks of Reliance some Real Estate Assets on Rented Generators

Some of real estate assets are not linked to the electricity network of the Saudi Electricity Company (SEC), as these assets are supplied with electrical energy through leased generators from a company licensed by the Electricity & Cogeneration Regulatory Authority (ECRA) to generate electricity from mobile units. It should be noted that in case the generator lease agreement is terminated, the fund manager (through the property manager) shall find an alternative generator provider. Accordingly, the delay or failure of the fund manager (through the property manager) to find an alternative provider of generators may affect the operation of real estate assets, which may adversely affect the financial position, cash flows and operating results of the fund.

- Risks of Fund's Reliance on Property Manager's Substantial Operational Support

The real estate assets will be managed by Retail Real Estate Company in accordance with a real estate management and operation agreement signed between the fund and Retail Real Estate Company. The delay or failure of Retail Real Estate Company to fulfill its obligations may have a substantial negative impact on the fund's business, financial position and operating results.

- Risks of Negative Impact of Lack or Non-Compliance with Regulatory Approvals and Licensing Requirements of Real Estate Assets

All regulatory approvals and licenses for operation of commercial centers shall be obtained. It is not possible to guarantee that all regulatory approvals for real estate assets will be obtained or renewed in a timely manner. In addition, violation of the terms of any of these regulatory approvals may result in cancellation, withdrawal, suspension or imposition of financial penalties by the relevant regulatory authorities. Any amendments to existing laws and regulations may impose unexpected and more expensive requirements and the fund's compliance with such laws or regulations will result in incurring large capital expenses, or other obligations or responsibilities, which may have a substantial negative impact on the fund's business, financial position, cash flows and operating results.

- Risks of Possibility of Substantial Damage to Real Estate Assets due to Natural Disasters and other events beyond Control of the Fund Manager for which Insurance, if any, may not be Sufficient

Real estate assets may be exposed to substantial damage caused by fire, storms, earthquakes, or other natural disasters, or for other reasons such as political unrest. In case of any such event, the fund may lose the capital invested in the real estate assets, as well as the expected revenues. No guarantee can be given that the resulting losses, including the loss of rental income, may be fully compensated under the insurance cover, if any. There are certain types of risks and losses (e.g. losses result from political unrest, war or some natural disasters) that may not be covered economically or in general. In case any of such events occurs, it may have a substantial negative impact on the fund's business, financial position, cash flows and operating results.

- Risks of Real Estate Assets Expropriation

The government shall be entitled to compulsorily take possession of a property for the public benefit (e.g. construction of roads and public utilities). Despite compensation may be paid for expropriation, there is a risk that the compensation value will not be sufficient compared to the size of the investment, lost profits, or the increase in investment value. In case expropriation is made, the value of distributions to unitholders, and the value and trading price of units may decrease, and unitholders may lose all or part of the invested capital.

- Government Policy Risks

Any future reduction of subsidies for electricity and water in the Kingdom, changes in value-added tax, real estate transactions tax or imposing any new taxes may reduce disposable income and may reduce the levels of demand for the fund's real estate assets, and therefore cash dividends and the market value of the fund units as well.

- Risks relating to Compliance with Sharia Principles

Whereas the fund will invest in investment opportunities compliant with Sharia principles as determined by the fund's Sharia Board, including compliance with Sharia principles determined by the fund's Sharia Board with regard to management and financing operations and all aspects related to the fund. Accordingly, this could limit ability of the fund from making certain investments, which may result in loss of some non-Shari'ah-compliant opportunities. Although the fund seeks to ensure that all investments are in compliance with Sharia principles, there is no guarantee on the principles accepted by the Sharia Board, as the principles differ from one Sharia advisor to another.

- Risks of E-commerce Impact on the Competitive Environment of Traditional Retail Businesses

The store lessees of the initial real estate assets depend mainly on the traditional sales through the outlets located in the commercial markets. These traditional businesses may be negatively affected by the high increase in the online e-stores, which raises a great demand from consumers and retailers, as this may lead to less number of traditional store clients and mall visitors, which could have a negative impact on the fund's business, financial position and operating results.

- Real Estate Development Risks

The development and marketing of a new real estate project entails several risks, including but not limited to: delay in completion of works on schedule, cost overruns, poor business quality, inability to achieve sales, and force majeure. Starting a new project also entails other risks, including delay in obtaining governmental approvals and permits required for development, and other governmental approvals and permits required. Given that investment in the fund units is an indirect investment in any real estate development project in which the fund invests, any development of a real estate project, if any, will have a direct and substantial impact on value of the fund's units.

- Financing Risks:

It is possible for the Fund to obtain bank financing to finance the development of its assets, and acquisition of additional property which involves a high degree of risk, and may expose the Fund and its investments to other factors such as the high cost of financing (The cost of financing obtained by the Fund may increase in the event of an increase in the prices of financing profits, which negatively affects its performance). Moreover, the assets of the Fund may be mortgaged to donors for financing, and the financing bank may claim the assets in the event of any default from the Fund, which also depends on the terms of that financing.

- Money Market Fund Risks

It is all the risks similar to the risks of investing in money market funds which the Fund may invest, which is the failure of any debtor to the Monetary Fund to fulfill its contractual obligations with the agreed party which may cause the Fund to lose all or part of the amount invested in these transactions, which in turn may negatively affect the performance of the Fund

Distribution Volatility Risks

Although, according to the Real Estate Investment Funds Regulations issued by the Board of the Capital Market Authority, the Fund is required to distribute at least 90% of its net profits to unitholders on an annual basis. There is no guarantee about the actual amounts distributed by the Fund. The Fund may be unable to make any distributions due to unforeseen events that lead to an increase in costs, including capital expenditures in the event of urgent or sudden large-scale and costly renewal work or a decrease in revenue. Likewise, in the case of low annual rent collection, in case the tenant delays paying the rent on time or is unable to pay the rent for any reason beyond his control or will.

- Uninsured Losses Risks

The Fund will maintain commercial liability insurance, title insurance and other types of insurance covering all property owned and managed by the Fund of such type and limits as it believes to be sufficient and appropriate given the relative risks applicable to the property and at the appropriate cost of coverage. With the application of good industry practices, it is also possible to insure against certain losses, subject to certain contracts, including policy restrictions. Therefore, the Fund may incur material losses that exceed the insurance proceeds and may be unable to continue to obtain insurance coverage at commercially reasonable rates. If the Fund experiences an uninsured loss or a loss that exceeds its insurance limits in relation to the ownership of one or more properties, the Fund is likely to lose the capital invested in the affected property as well as the expected future returns from these properties. Certainly, any such loss is likely to adversely affect the financial condition of the Fund, the results of its operations and the resulting cash flows, and thus the Fund's ability to provide financial distributions to unitholders.

B. Other risks

- The Risks of the Fund's Dependence on Saudi Arabia's Economy and Its Position in The Global Market

The results of the fund and its financial position will be affected by the state of the economy in Saudi Arabia and the global economic conditions that affect Saudi Arabia's economy. Despite its growth in other sectors, the Saudi economy is still dependent on the price of oil and gas in the global markets. Therefore, the decline in oil and gas prices may slow down or disrupt the Saudi economy. Moreover, the resulting impact on cash flow could negatively affect demand in Real estate sector. In addition, any adverse change in one or more of macroeconomic factors, such as exchange rate, commissions prices, inflation, wage levels, unemployment, foreign investment and international trade, may have a substantially negative impact on the fund's business, financial position and operating results.

- The Risks of political, economic and legal environments' continuous being subject to constant change

The political, economic and legal environments in Saudi Arabia are subject to continuous developments. The negative social, economic and political developments in Saudi Arabia and the neighboring countries or others in the region may have a negative and material impact on the fund's business, financial position, cash flows and operating results.

- Litigation with Third Parties Risks

The activities of the Fund's assets are likely to be exposed to the risks of entering into legal disputes with third parties, and the Fund will bear the costs of defending against third party claims, settlement amounts or judgments, which would affect the Fund's assets and reduce potential dividends.

- Suitability of Investments

Units may not be a suitable investment for all investors. Each prospective investor in units must determine the suitability of this investment in light of his or her own circumstances. In particular, every prospective unit owner shall have the following:

Therefore, prospective investors shall examine all future statements in light of these interpretations, without relying primarily on such statements.

- Warning about Investment in The Fund:

Investment in the Fund does not mean a guarantee of profit or non-loss, and the nature of the investment of unitholders in the Fund is by participation. That is, achieving profits or bearing losses will be according to the percentage of participation of each unitholder in the Fund (proportionately). Accordingly, the Fund Manager does not provide any guarantees for the Fund to achieve its investment objectives, and there will be no guarantees for the unitholders to recover the value of their original investment upon selling their units or upon the termination of the Fund.

The performance of real estate assets and other real estate investment funds in the KSA is neither an indicator of the success of the Fund nor a guarantee of it. Rather, the returns achieved by real estate assets and other real estate investment funds in the KSA can vary greatly. As each real estate asset is affected by special factors, including but not limited to: demographics, timing, environmental factors, design and contractors. Also, there is no guarantee, confirmation or statement on the part of the Fund Manager that the real estate assets of the Fund will achieve the same or similar results as those achieved by real estate assets or similar real estate investment funds implemented in the KSA. The success of similar projects or funds is not indicative of any future returns.

Unitholders shall bear full responsibility for any financial loss that may result from investing in the Fund, except in cases where the loss is the result of gross negligence or wilful default of the Fund Manager.

The Fund Manager may act as a manager of other funds that have the same objectives as the Fund, and from here it may result that the Fund Manager may have, in the course of its work, cases of conflict of responsibility or interests between the Fund and other funds. In this case, the Fund Manager will endeavour to resolve this conflict of interest on a fair and equitable basis for all related funds, and the Fund Manager will disclose any potential conflict of interest to the Fund Board and obtain their approval..
