Our view

Bupa experienced a sudden burst of price and volume towards the end of last week. The stock has been languishing at its lows for a while and this looks like a nice break out. Prefer to play the stock with a longer stoploss. Crossing the 200EMA would be a good sign of long term appreciation. Recommend to buy gradually at current levels.

Americana has been under stress over the past two years several geo-political events. However, the company has managed to normalize its operations. The stock is reflecting a clear bottoming out. While there is solid resistance at current levels, we believe it is would be broken eventually and this is a good level to consider buying.

Our view

Jabal is rebounding from a low which we feel will be the bottom. The stock has adequate room for upside from current levels. We believe despite the volatility it would offer decent returns. Volume support has been building recently and will provide the momentum for the upside. Recommend to buy with a comfortable stop loss.

Our view

Du is neatly perched for an upside. The pattern of the previous week offers sufficient comfort and we believe supports will hold at current levels. The volume build up offers adequate momentum for a move upwards. This is a good level for both long and short term investors to enter. Recommend to accumulate at current levels with a trailing stop loss.

Our view

Jazeera is looking to take off current levels, from the especially post a stable set of results. The 200EMA will be a strong support protecting the downside. momentum remains we expect the stock to trade near its recent highs. Operations have normalized fundamentals and have improved in the past few quarters. Risk reward favorable at current levels.
